A Special Memory with My Family

Class: 2A Name: Chu Ho Ming Kyson

I am incredibly blessed to have a family of four: my hardworking father, my caring mother, my playful younger brother, and myself. Every Friday evening, we head to the park for an energetic game of football; the friendly competition and shared laughter make it the highlight of my week. During the holidays, we love the simple joy of curling up together on the sofa to watch movies, creating a warm and cozy atmosphere at home.

The most unforgettable and sweetest memory we share is our trip to Disneyland last year. I can still feel the adrenaline rush as we gripped the bars of the roller coaster, screaming and laughing together as a family. I felt so grateful that I thanked my parents repeatedly for making that magical trip possible.

Looking ahead, my biggest dream is to treat them to an overseas adventure once I grow up, to repay them for everything they've done. To us, family truly embodies the words of Barbara Bush: 'Family means putting your arms around each other and being there.'

I love my family deeply—my father, mother, and older brother. Our bond is built on a foundation of genuine affection, and I truly cherish every moment we spend together.

Our weekends are filled with shared joy and tradition. Every Saturday, we head to the park, where we create precious memories that I hold close to my heart. On Sundays, we embrace our collective love for swimming by heading to the pool together. Even our quiet moments are special; during the holidays, we often gather at home to watch TV, turning simple relaxation into meaningful family time.

As Michael J. Fox once said, "Family is not an important thing. It's everything." To me, it is the most beautiful feeling in the world to be with them, and I cherish every sweet second of our life together.

I share a truly special bond with my mother, who finds so much joy in spending quality time with me. One of our most cherished memories took place last summer during our visit to the Chimelong Spaceship. It was an unforgettable day filled with laughter; we spent hours feeding colorful parrots and discovering different species of exotic fish. We even braved the thrills of the drop tower together, screaming and laughing all the way!

What made the trip truly magical, however, was our time in the souvenir shop. I picked out a playful parrot hairband, while my mum chose a bright flamingo cap. We took so many photos wearing our new treasures, capturing the pure happiness of being together. As Candace Cameron Bure once said, 'The memories we make with our family are everything.'

Mom, thank you so much for being by my side and for making every moment feel like an adventure. I appreciate you and our family more than words can say. I can't wait to explore many more wonderful places and create even more beautiful memories with you, again and again.

Do you remember laughing so hard that flour went everywhere? In my family, that is one of our best memories. We tried to bake a cake for my grandmother's birthday, but we started a flour fight instead! We were covered in white powder and could not stop laughing. We even had to clean the ceiling! It was messy and fun. What makes simple moments like this so special?

I love my family because they are always there for me. My favourite moment happened last winter during Chinese New Year. My grandfather, who is usually quiet, held my hand after dinner. We sat by the window and looked at our old neighbourhood. He told me stories about carrying me on his shoulders when I was small. I could feel his love in every word. I know that he helped make me who I am today. One day, I hope to take my parents to the countryside. There, we can relax and spend time together without being busy.

I am very thankful for my family. Proverbs 6:22 says, "When you walk, they will guide you; when you sleep, they will watch over you." To show my thanks, I will spend time with them. I will listen to them carefully. I will help them without waiting to be asked. I will follow their good advice. As Barbara Bush said, "Family means putting your arms around each other and being there." What could be better than that?

Last month my family and I went to Japan. We were so excited because it was our first time there. The weather was cool and there were many beautiful flowers.

We had picnics under the pink cherry trees. The petals gently fell like snow as we ate sushi and drank juice. We ate ice cream. Mine is matcha-flavored, and it was delicious. After that, my mum and I swam in the swimming pool, while my dad and my sister played on the swing. Dad pushed her higher, and she screamed with joy.

We had a big lunch at a small local restaurant. Then we went to the beach, where the sand was soft and the waves were gentle. My sister went to the park and saw some flowers. For dinner, we ate hotpot filled with meat, tofu, and vegetables — it warmed our hearts.

At night, my sister and I played with toys. My dad and mum watched TV. We all felt very tired but truly joyful.

I love my family a lot. We always play together every Sunday and Monday. My mother always helps me with my homework with all of her hard work of teaching me Math.

My dad always play football with me. He is a football player and he is the best football player in the world.

I am thankful for my mother and grandmother. I will help my mother with the dishes. I love my mother and grandmother.
